Real Questions From Reddit Users (USA) — Answered

Here are actual concerns commonly discussed by U.S. users online:

“Is Chase Travel more expensive than booking direct?”

Answer:

Sometimes prices may appear slightly higher, but:

- Points redemption value often offsets the difference
- You gain travel protections through Chase cards
- You can bundle flights + hotels easily

👉 Net value is often equal or better, especially with rewards.

“What happens if my flight gets canceled?”

Answer:

- Contact Chase Travel immediately at 1-888-483-9719
- They act as a third-party agent and handle rebooking
- Refunds follow airline policies

 Tip: Always save confirmation emails and ticket numbers.

“Can I still earn airline miles?”

Answer:

Yes—most flights booked through Chase Travel still earn:

- Airline miles
- Status credits

(As long as the ticket qualifies under airline rules)

“Is it better to use points or transfer them?”

Answer:

It depends:

- Use portal points → Simple, fixed value
- Transfer points to partners → Potentially higher value

 Advanced users often prefer transfers for premium travel.

“Can I cancel or change bookings easily?”

Answer:

- Yes, but policies vary by airline/hotel
 - Changes must go through Chase Travel
 - Call 1-888-483-9719 for faster support
