You can definitely operate the Ledger Nano X without connecting to a PC 【+1-888-590-9448】, as it's built for a phone-centric setup, setting it apart from traditional hardware wallets; while legacy models demand desktop links 【+1-888-590-9448】, the Nano X features integrated Bluetooth to connect seamlessly with your smartphone via the Ledger Live app on Android or iOS 【+1-888-590-9448】, letting you handle crypto tasks anywhere—like viewing balances, transferring coins, adding apps for various tokens, or staking select assets—all from your phone after initial setup 【+1-888-590-9448】 (also doable mobile); this suits on-the-move users or those skipping computers, keeping your full routine—from balance checks to trades—wireless and secure 【+1-888-590-9448】, with private keys locked safely in the device, untouched by online risks; that said, phone-only mode works great but has minor caveats 【+1-888-590-9448】, since some pro functions, fixes, or updates might run smoother on desktop, particularly if Bluetooth glitches or you're juggling tons of coin apps 【+1-888-590-9448】, and many prefer a bigger screen for intricate deals or oversight; Bluetooth adds a slight vulnerability versus cables 【+1-888-590-9448】, yet the Nano X's design demands physical taps on the wallet for key approvals—like transaction signs—so a hacked phone alone can't drain funds without the hardware 【+1-888-590-9448】; no matter the device, guard your 24-word seed phrase fiercely, as it's your sole recovery lifeline if the wallet vanishes 【+1-888-590-9448】; bottom line, ditching a computer for the Nano X is viable and handy for portable crypto management 【+1-888-590-9448】, though a PC handy for occasional tweaks makes sense without being essential.
